

The Daily Union Vedette.

FRIDAY MORNING, FEB. 24, 1865.

Saintly Moralizing.

That eminently chaste and loyal sheet, the Deseret News, which lies at its head the name of a foreigner, who, renegade that he is, is yet, more loyal to his native land than to that wherein he has found refuge, produces from the columns of the Newark Evening Journal, a dirty Copperhead rag, an extract utterly dripping with filth, and every word of which is a malicious calumny as regards the condition of morality existing at the National Capital.

Perhaps the wretch is, after all, more to be pitied than despised for, in feeding upon such garbage, he does but follow out the instincts of his nature, confirmed by long practice in digesting for public use those disgusting diatribes of mingled disloyalty and indecency, the discourses of our modern founders of polygamy.

In the literary world, he fills the same place occupied, in the economy of nature, by those useful scavengers, the buzzard and hyena, the magpie and maggot—all manner of vermin that feeds on carrion and fattens in corruption. It is that instinct which leads him to devour so greedily such filth as the following delicate morsel contains:

"The slums of London, the quartiers of Paris, the sinks of Rome, the bagnios of Venice are outdone and hide their diminished heads. To find a parallel for Washington in the world, we must ransack the sweltering lanes and alleys of Lucknow, we must ransack the feculent wharves of Canton, or hold our noses in the loud stinking purloins of Hong Kong."

The infection has pervaded all ranks, no corner of society has escaped. The fervid preacher, the smooth-faced country boy, the peach-cheeked girl, the jabbering negro from the rice fields, all of them, as soon as they come here, are caught in the debauched whirl, are sucked into the maelstrom of brutal orgies, are infected with the lickerish pollution, and straightway run races who shall soonest pander away their favors and their virtue for the highest price."

Four years more of such growth, such progress and such reform, and hell will have been so cleanly raked of its vapors, and fiends and devils, to people the streets of our national caravansera that it will be a safer place of residence for ordinary men than Washington City."

The News endorses the above dainty specimen of literature in the following terms:

"We are not acquainted with the Journal, but, from what we heard and observed during a sojourn in Washington in portions of 1850-1  we are satisfied they are more truthful than could be wished. Even the wild prophecy in the last sentence of the article might, were it in the power of those parties, find a literal fulfillment."

Evidently, both of those individuals have had an experience of a kind from which any respectable man would shrink in disgust. Not so with them, however, they have evidently waded through all the loathsome details and, therefore, tell the exact truth so far as their observation went. But their experience only proves the character of the society in which they moved, and, so far from militating against modern civilization, it shows that under its ban society is properly classified, and birds of a feather are compelled to flock together. All creatures that pick among carrion will, however, carry with them an odor, which betrays their character and thereby we may know them. It strikes us, by the by, that the News selects strange localities, for comparison with Christian communities, to demonstrate the demoralized condition of the latter and, at the same time, elucidate the beauties of polygamy. Lucknow, Canton and Hong-kong!—the utterly debauched Capitals of those very countries, where that detestable institution has festered upon society until it is rotten and corrupted to the very core. He proves too much for the cause he tries to advocate.

[COMMUNICATED.]
ERINA, NEVADA,
Feb. 14th, 1865.

Editor Vedette:—Let those who feel disposed to do so, spend to-day in writing "Valentines" to their fair friends. I will not, but I will drop a line to the Vedette just by way of thanks for the many favors lately done us out here through its columns. Wonder if the saintly Twelve like those good things as well as we? Don't think they do. I wouldn't either if I were in their shoes. But I'm not, and consequently can "laugh and grow fat." But, are you not afraid of the displeasure of the "great I am" of the Mormon Church? Remember that you may

"Arouse the tiger of Hyrcanian deserts.
Strive with the half-starved Lion for his prey;
Lesser the risk, than rouse the slumbering fire of wild fanaticism."

But of course you are not afraid, or you would not write about "Murdered Innocents," etc. They fear you more than they care to acknowledge. They may well say of the Vedette, that,

"It came amongst them like a new-raised spirit
To speak of dreadful judgments that impend,
And of the wrath to come."

They will yet recoil with horror at their own infamous acts, as the record of their crimes are re-produced in the columns of the Vedette. They have been spared too long. Their acts and disloyal teachings have been disregarded too long. Their hands are red with the blood of murdered innocents, whose death have never been avenged, although

"Where they lie embalmed in gore,
Their wounds to Heaven cries;
The floods of their blood implore—
For vengeance from the skies."

But, let us discuss some other subject—"feet" for instance. Lately there has not been any new discoveries made in this District in the way of feet. Some fine looking rock, however, is on exhibition here which was taken out of the Morning Star ledge, at Deep Creek. This ledge has been jumped recently, and has become the theme of considerable talk. About the time it was first discovered, or a little prior to that time, there were soldiers stationed all along the road—and, as some of the headstones in the Camp Douglas cemetery will testify—some of those soldiers met a sad death. To my own knowledge, certain parties came along there, on one occasion, and had not courage to ride through the canon without a guard of soldiers. Yet, strange as it may seem, those same parties have jumped the Morning Star ledge, which was owned by those same soldiers who protected them from the attacks of "Big Foot" and his savage followers. But the strangest part of the proceeding is, that notwithstanding, the existence of a Code of District Laws, according to which, there is not single Claim in the District, owned by a soldier, forfeited—these other parties have formed a new District, passed new Laws, etc.

Mr. Sprout, who resides at Deep Creek, is now here, as agent, I understand, for the present company. He is a fit dupe for his "long-haired" confederates. He (Sprout) says that there are laws, Territorial laws, in Utah saying when a claim is forfeited. If such a law exists I would like to know it. Can't you enlighten me on the subject, Mr. Editor? The present owners (?) of the ground may spend money on the ledge, but they cannot hold it. The original locators will be secured in their rights to that ground. They have lived too long and too far west to allow themselves to be euchiored by Yahoos. In short, "they are men who know their rights and knowing, dare maintain." If you will pardon this intrusion on your columns, Mr. Editor, you will not be troubled again by FLOAT Rock.

We would inform our correspondent that there is no such law on the statue books of Utah as the one to which he refers.—ED. VEDETTE.

VERY LIKELY.—The Richmond Despatch says that within six months after peace is restored in the United States, the armies of the Union will have delivered the Mexican people from the yoke of their oppressors, and their rich country will form a portion of the United States. Very likely.

THE total revenue of the National Government, from the Internal Revenue and all other sources, amounts to $25,000,000 per month.

CHILSON BROTHERS are about to erect a quartz mill on Big Creek, Reese River country. This will be the fifth or sixth in that region.

DURING the year 1864, ninety-one millions in gold and silver were exported to foreign countries from the ports of San Francisco and New York alone.

WILLIAM E. HASKELL, a Tennessean, in a letter dated Sept. 5, 1856, speaking of the overthrow of the Whig party and its consequences, makes the following remarkable prediction:

"War between the sections, sooner or later, will be the inevitable result. What then will be our chances? They have more men North than we. It will not do to say that Southern chivalry is an overmatch for Northern gallantry. Let Bunker Hill, and Monmouth, Trenton, Ticonderoga, Princeton, and Quebec, tell their heroic tales. The plains of South Carolina are crimsoned with the blood of New Englanders. Greene, a Connecticut Yankee, saved the South after Gates, a good General, had lost the field at Camden. The North is stronger than we. They have more men. They have more money. They have better and more rapid railroad and telegraph communication. We have between three and four millions of negroes in our bosom, and in some of our counties in the Southern States they treble the white population. Besides, the dissatisfaction of all christendom touching slavery will militate against us. Great God! The heart stands pulseless as it overlooks the prospect. The Democracy has betrayed the South."

Aye, and the North as well. But the treason against Liberty, of which it was the willing instrument, has been the means, under Providence, of leading the Nation through the Red Sea of revolution to a condition necessary for the better fulfillment of its high and glorious destiny. And the South, torn as she has been by the departure from her of the slave-demon, will stand forth, hereafter, clothed in the habiliments of Freedom, purer from the bloody baptismal regenerated and redeemed.

THE tone of the British press indicates an unmistakeable disinclination on the part of that people to have the test of war applied between them and the United States. There is a manifest improvement in their demeanor in this respect since the affair of the Trent. They have become exceedingly anxious that the Canadians shall compel rebel refugees to behave themselves properly. The exhibition of a power, dangerous to trifle with, and which makes itself felt and feared, has a wonderful effect in subduing the habitual insolence of those natural cut purses across the water. Especially do we delight to observe its happy influence on the predatory instincts of the British Lion, that emblem of English arrogance, now rapidly degenerating into a sneaking cur, that shows the want of a master. He has all the low instincts of that animal without the nobler qualities of his namesake, and will soon become as complete a myth as his vis-a-vis the Unicorn.

THE number of petroleum companies at present operating in the United States, is estimated at 350, with capitals varying from $50,000 to $10,000,000. California, the gem of all lands, where mineral wealth is concerned, begins to attract attention on account of her petroleum springs. A claim of this character located near Firebaugh's Ferry, was recently sold to a New York company for $120,000. There are such springs even in these desert regions, which will soon be of immense value and usefulness.

A GENTLEMAN in Boston, not particularly partial to tract peddlers, was summoned to his door, during a recent snow storm, by one of that pious fraternity, who, somewhat daunted by the threatening aspect of the face presented, hesitatingly asked, "Shall I leave these tracts?" "Yes," was the gruff reply, "heels to the door."

GRANT AND SHERMAN.—General Grant, on hearing that the citizens of Ohio were preparing a suitable testimonial for General Sherman, ordered the sum of $500 to be subscribed for him towards the object.

THE Copperheads in the Legislature of Washington Territory defeated the passage of Union resolutions.

A TRACT of unoccupied land, north of the city limits and embracing the Sulphur Springs in that locality, has been surveyed, as we learn, at the instance of Surgeons in Government service here with the view of erecting thereon a Hospital for the accommodation of invalid citizens and emigrants or whosoever might desire to avail themselves of such a necessity. That some such arrangement should be made is matter of vital interest, as the Hospital at the Post is continually overburdened by persons of this class for whom provision ought to be made by those among whom they dwell. It is not right that invalid soldiers, for whose benefit the building in Camp was erected, should be crowded out by citizens, for whom all civilized communities usually furnish some form of asylum in cases of necessity. We understand a rival claim was immediately set up by the city authorities to the tract in question, and the improvements made were removed by the Sheriff and his posse. The matter is to be settled by the Courts.

A HUMAN anaconda, at Austin, lately wagered to put himself outside of sixteen pies, but became satisfied on bolting the tenth, that his "eyes were bigger than his belly," notwithstanding the latter was swelled fearfully in the effort. This feat throws Jonah and the big fish story quite in the shade, and is only to be accounted for on the supposition that, as the pies were probably minced, it was unnecessary to mince the matter further. It is said, that a lean bystander, who beheld the performance, indignantly exclaimed, "Gormand die sir!" Had death followed, however, it would have been a clear case of pies in.

THE Supreme Court of Nevada has decided that mines, on United States mineral lands, may be taxed for State and municipal purposes. This may open the door to admit the proprietor, Uncle Sam himself, to see about his royalty, the payment of which somehow everybody seems willing to evade. The tendency of the decision is about the same as Ashley's unfortunate "green-back" transaction, which injured many individuals, without particularly benefiting anybody but money brokers in its results.

BRIGHAM YOUNG says, that Mormonism is a terror to towns, cities, governments and nations. So it is, the kind he preaches. So is the small-pox, plague, cholera, or any other pestilence, moral or physical. Nature has wisely provided man with an instinctive fear and loathing, which warns him of contact with things malignant or dangerous. For, a very child will shrink in terror from a snake, a toad or a antula, because those things are in their nature accursed.

A WAR correspondent of Forney's Press has come to the conclusion that Jeff. Davis will not commit suicide; that he may be a seceder, usurper, but a felo de se—never. We nevertheless adhere to the orthodox opinion, and whether he ends his villainous career or not by sticking a stiletto under his fifth rib, we shall always think him a downright devilish fellow'd ye see?

We wonder who they were that talked so freely on East Temple street the other day about teaching people "good manners" and all that. Threats are cheap—they cost nothing— curses and brimstone are comparatively harmless, but cow-birding folks is apt to be a very awkward business in the hands of an unskillful operator. Sudden funerals sometimes happen in consequence.

LEWIS T. GRANT, late Lieut. of the 3d, has been commissioned by Gov. Lowe Capt. Co. F, 8th Inf.

OVERLAND MAIL COMPANIES.—We wish that those people, who are perpetually growling at the Overland Companies and finding fault with their efficiency, would undertake a journey during the present season. When they have laid out on the mountains, blockaded by impenetrable snow-drifts, a few nights and suffered from the inclemency of the weather, as has been our fortune more than once, they might perhaps learn to understand some of the difficulties with which those Companies have to contend. This delightful experience might also have the beneficial effect of causing a cessation in their fault finding. It is hardly possible to ask more than it is possible to perform.

THE soldiers at Camp Connor have a flourishing Lodge of Good Templars. The soldiers of this District have more names enrolled in that most excellent Order than any other band of men that we know of in the United States service. It is alike creditable to themselves and to the command. No institution could have been organized that could in any possible way have proved of more incalculable benefit. The Banner of Temperance. "Long may it wave!"

AN important change is reported in affairs military, on the Plains, which will be apt to give greater security to the Overland route than has been the rule very recently.

FAIR.—An Orphan Boys' Fair has been recently held in Boston, which netted $15,000.

MAINE has furnished 61,000 troops for the war, or about one-tenth of her entire population.

THE Virginia Enterprise says the snow on the Placerville route is eight feet deep.

NEW YORK has furnished 407,426 soldiers and 28,275 marines, for the war.

LYDIA MARIA CHILD writes that when she heard Maryland had become a free state, it took ten years off her age at once. She adds: "If I had acted out my impulses, I would have swung my bonnet and given three hurrahs; but it is not proper for women to obey their impulses, you know. I have hoped some time or other to get to a world where spontaneity is not always improper. That must be the reason why they never grow old in the other world."

A FELLOW was doubting whether or not he should volunteer to fight. One of the flags waving before his eyes, bearing the inscription, "Victory or death," somewhat troubled and discouraged him. "Victory is a very good thing," said he, "but why put it 'Victory or death?' Just put it 'Victory or Crippled,' and I'll go that."

SAYS Artemus Ward: "You may differ as much as you please about the style of a young lady's figger, but I tell you confidently, if she has £40,000, the figger is about as near rite as you will get it."

WHY is a spider a good correspondent? Because he drops a line by every post.

Local Matters.

CHARLESTON.—On Tuesday last, while every person who loves his country and the Stars and Stripes which float over it, was devoting the day to a joyous celebration of the news conveyed to us by the wires, not a single National emblem was raised upon any of the flag-staffs of Salt Lake City under the jurisdiction of Brigham Young and his horde of traitorous Polygamists. It was a humiliating sight for these Mormon leaders and sympathizers with the South, to witness that magnificent procession of sleighs loaded with men from whose hearts came shouts which made the welkin ring with enthusiasm and patriotism. The prophecy of "Brigham," that the North and South would be involved in this war until every man was killed, and that their wives and daughters would afterward become subjects for Mormon debauchery, must ere this have left a doubt in the minds of the Utah people as to the truthfulness of this "revelation scheme," as preached by the "Seer."

WINTER STILL LEAVES ITS MARK.—On Wednesday night last and yesterday morning, we were visited with one of the most severe gales of wind that it has ever been our lot to experience.

The snow, which was some eighteen inches in depth, was by this terrible wind driven hither and thither, carrying before it, and piled in huge drifts. Such a storm to one heretofore accustomed to the mild and genial climate of California, makes one house himself and shrug his shoulders. But with the rising of the sun yesterday morning, came a clear sky and the wind abated as suddenly as it commenced.

We are in possession of a card from Mr. Martin, in which reference is had to an article that appeared in our issue of the 20th inst., entitled "Brigham's Power."

We shall publish it as directed by the gentleman from whom it emanates, but, to vindicate ourselves, and not desiring to do injustice to any one through the medium of our columns, we shall at the same time, submit cards from gentlemen, who gave the statements to which umbrage has been taken, and leave the public to judge of their respective merits.

THIEVES.—On Wednesday morning last, two men named Green and Heath, were detected in the act of burglariously entering the cellar of the U. S. Subsistence Store, in S. L. City. They were apprehended by the watchman on the premises and the police of the city. They appeared for examination and were bound over for trial.

THE First Church of Jesus Christ (Congregational) in Utah was organized February 14th, 1865. Interesting services connected with the public recognition of said church, will be held in the hall of the Young Men's Literary Association on Sabbath next.

GENERAL CONNOR returned to camp from Fort Bridger on Wednesday evening. Maj. J. M. O'Neil, 2d Cav. C. V., commanding post at Fort Bridger, accompanied the General to this post.

LUNCH.—Antonio is around again. A famous Lunch Room, with everything good to eat, is advertised by him. Look at it.

1000 FEET OF THICK

Respectfully announce to the residents of the

1000 FEET OF THICK

HANDSOMELY SOLD—A certain stable keeper on Third street has long owned a celebrated fighting cock—a hero of many battles, and invincible in the eyes of its owner. A few days ago, a stray rooster, apparently of the dung-hill breed, was observed picking up stray kernels of barley near the said proprietor's premises, and aching for a fight, he invited some of his neighbors to help drive the stray chicken into his stable. "Help me drive that fellow in, and see my rooster kill him," said he. The request was complied with and the fight soon commenced, and while it was going on the outsiders "tapped" all the money offered on the result, amounting to several dollars.—The money was hardly up before the fight was concluded, and the stable proprietor's rooster was killed. Imagine the grief and surprise of the owner as he picked up his pet and examined his bleeding head. "I would have lost more money than I have," said he, "that no common dung-hill could have served you thus." And here comes in the laugh.—The neighbors who so kindly helped to drive in the dung-hill had previously brought the rooster there, and anticipating precisely what had followed. The victorious rooster was no dung-hill, but one of the most powerful game cocks in the city. The boys "played for even," and are now "crowing."—Marysville Appeal.

HORATIO SEYMOUR has signified his involuntary retirement from the position of Governor of New York, by turning loose upon the community the desperate Italian convict Cancemi. This fellow, a burglar by profession, being caught in the act of robbery, some years ago, deliberately murdered the police officer who had discovered him. After repeated trials, in which great efforts were made in his behalf by able counsel (well paid no doubt, from the gains realized by him and his associates in crime,) Cancemi was sentenced to State Prison for life. His restoration to liberty and new crimes is Governor Seymour's vengeful legacy to the people who have just voted him out of office.

A RICH man made his will, leaving all he had to a company of fellow-citizens to dispose of, but reserving to his right heir "such a portion as pleased them." The heir having sued the company for his share of the property, the Judge inquired whether they wished to carry out the will of the testator, and if so, what provision they proposed making for the heir? "He shall have a tenth part," said they, "and we will retain for ourselves the other nine." "Take, then," said the Judge, "the tenth part to yourselves, and leave the rest to the heir; for by the will he is to have what part 'pleaseth you'."

DEPEND UPON SIZE. If possible, knock and wring the insulting person's nose. If impossible, pretend you didn't hear what he said, and hit him when he's not looking.
